

WILL TAKE YEARS TO REPAIR EVERY DAMAGE IN PARIS

City is Panic Stricken and Cold, Facing Worst Day
of All.

Europe Suffers Loss of Property and Life.

HOCH DER KAISER, WILHELM!

Paris, Jan. 27.—The thermometer is below freezing and the Seine is still rising. Paris awoke today to what may be the most terrible day of her history since the war crises. For once Paris is sobered. Her gay mood has departed. Fear is plainly written on the faces of all. Engineers say today that if the waters subside immediately, it will take two years to repair the subways alone.

Public halls, churches and school buildings and even such magnificent structures as the Pantheon are being converted into refuges for the poor. Through the co-operation of the police, soldiers and Red Cross societies thousands of destitute are kept from starvation. Never before has such a depressing spectacle been witnessed as the almost constant procession to Paris of unfortunates from flooded environs. Thousands are coming for food, shelter and medical attention. Scantily clad women with babies in their arms, aged men pulling rickety carts, containing household effects, cripples, carried on litters or riding in improvised carts, drawn by men, crying children and half crazed men make up the sad procession.

Police and soldiers are literally driving hundreds from their homes in the inundated sections to prevent them being crushed to death in the collapse of their homes. Scores of houses already have tumbled in.

The flood loss in Paris alone will reach $200,000,000, according to the estimate made by government officials this afternoon. The loss is almost as great as has been sustained in other parts of France. The total loss, it is believed, will reach the staggering total of half a billion dollars.

Firemen gave a wonderful exhibition of bravery today during a small fire in the building of the minister of public works, due to the destroying of the electric accumulators by the flood. They were forced to stand waist deep in water, which was covered with a slight coating of ice, and successfully extinguished the fire.

Food prices are still rising and it is possible the government will be forced to interfere soon, as the poorer classes are hardly able to buy enough for sustenance.

Kaiser's Birthday.

Berlin, Jan. 27.—Germany is one vast field of flags today in honor of the Kaiser's 51st birthday anniversary. All state schools are closed. Business is suspended, services of thanksgiving are held in many churches. Scores of prominent Germans and members of foreign embassies called at the palace to express congratulations. There will be a state banquet tonight.

Terrible Situation.

London, Jan. 27.—Advisers today from European seaports show that fully 200 vessels, mostly small fishing craft, were lost in the storm the last 48 hours. The loss of life is sinking is 160. Italy, Spain, Germany and Scandinavian countries report tremendous loss of property and life. The situation is the most appalling in Europe in many years.

Rome Threatened.

At Rome the Tiber threatens to inundate the city. The river has already overflowed many huge damage. A report that a tidal wave swept Venice proved without foundation, but the city suffered heavily from the storm many buildings being destroyed.

The interior of Spain is practically cut off from outside communication and the extent of damage cannot be ascertained.

Greek Cabinet Resigns.

Athens, Jan. 27.—The cabinet today notified King George of its decision to resign. The king is forced to face many serious problems single-handed. It is freely predicted the situation will cause his early abdication.

Socialists Riot.

Berlin, Jan. 27.—When the police attempted to break up a Socialist demonstration at Brunswick today a riot followed and 27 persons were seriously wounded. There were many arrests.

The indictment was thrown out on the ground of lack of jurisdiction of the court and for other reasons, which Judge Hough announced would be stated in a memorandum to be filed later.

thousand French residents of New Orleans today put in circulation a subscription list to raise a fund for the relief of flood sufferers in France. It is expected that at least $100,000 will be raised. The movement is under the auspices of the society of July 14. On the night of February 2, the French Opera company will give a benefit performance for the flood sufferers. Many persons here, who have relatives in Paris, received cablegrams today. One said: "Our beautiful city is in ruins." Another said: "Paris is paying the penalty."

Monroe, La., Jan. 27.—"I've got so many children that all the meat boycoots from now back to Adam couldn't save me from the poor house," declared Will Skinner, 52 years old, to a crowd in a saloon here shortly after midnight this morning. When friends tried to interfere Skinner shot himself through the heart and died instantly. Skinner was father of 19 children, the oldest of whom is under 12. He was once a wealthy planter, but lost his money in market speculation.

TOWN IS BURNING HELP IS RUSHING

DAMAGES ALREADY.

Baker City, Ore., Jan. 27.—Fire is threatening to destroy the business section of Baker City. It already has done damage of more than $200,000 and is spreading rapidly. The fire department appears unable to check the flames and hundreds of citizens are assisting them. Messages have been sent to surrounding towns, requesting aid and fire apparatus is being rushed on special trains. This city has a population of 10,000 and the business section comprised some fine buildings. It is feared the blaze will spread to the best residence district, which immediately adjoins the business district.

DRUGGISTS MAY BE COMPELLED TO PAY TWO HUNDRED

State Revenue Agent Believes Quart License is Same as Retail License.

William Husbands Writes to State Auditor.

SMEDLEY CASE IS AFFIRMED

If the investigations of State Revenue Agent William Husbands bring results, several liquor dealers in Paducah, including druggists, will be forced to pay $200 a year to the state instead of $100. It has all come about over the misinterpretation of the license law as applied to retail liquor houses that sell liquor in quantities not less than a quart and not more than five gallons.

Revenue agents all over the state have suddenly awakened to this fact and in the discovery it has been found that thousands of dollars in revenue are due the state.

Liquor houses pay a state merchants' license of $100 per annum, which is collected immediately after they open for business. In Lexington, Ky., C. W. Foushee, a revenue agent, has discovered that these houses come under the provision of retail liquor houses and should pay $200 a year.

Mr. Husbands began an investigation this week and is delving among the leaves of his law books. In the meantime he is awaiting a reply from State Auditor James, at Frankfort, to whom he has written in regard to the matter. Other revenue agents throughout the state are acting accordingly and it is believed that the findings will be approved by the auditor and attorney general.

In Paducah there are between ten and twelve dealers who have been paying $100 per year and in case the law is found to be entirely different the dealers will be compelled to pay in $100 more at once. These firms have been paying what is known as a merchants' license, but Mr. Husbands believes they should come under the head of retail dealers, as a wholesale license is considered over five gallons. Most of these dealers here are druggists. None of them has a city license.

Smudley Loses His Suit.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 27. (Special.)—In affirming the case of the commonwealth against Hiram Smudley, county court clerk, and his surety, the Title Guaranty and Surety company of Scranton, Penn., from the McCracken circuit court, the appellate court upholds section 4242 of the Kentucky statutes, providing that the county clerk, who fails to perform his duties, is liable on his official bond with 20 per cent damages thereon, and section 4236, allowing the revenue agent an additional 20 per cent for collecting the money.

Revenue Suit.
The suit was brought in circuit court by W. H. Husbands, revenue agent for McCracken county, against Smudley and his surety to recover $418. It is alleged, that was misappropriated. He was given judgment for the sum including 10 per cent interest, 20 per cent damages and 20 per cent on the whole amount as a fee for the revenue agent for making the collection. The bonding company, the total, $630, and took an appeal.

The county compromised with the bonding company, and since has brought suit.

Representative Eugene Graves Says He Will Vote as He Pleases in County Unit Committee Meeting

Religion and Morals Committee of Lower House Enjoys Lively Session—Proceedings of Legislature.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 27. (Special.)—There was a spirited fight last night before the religion and morals committee of the house over the county unit. Ex-Mayor Woods, of Richmond, declared that Democrats who failed to vote for the bill were deserting the party pledges. Eugene Graves, of McCracken, and Carter of Anderson, denied this and said they would do as they pleased. Graves said he intended to vote as he pleased.

GLAVIS ON STAND MAKES CHARGE IN BALLINGER CASE

Congressional Committee Gets Down to Work Investigating.

Accusations Against Secra- tary of Interior.

THE PROCEEDINGS IN DETAIL.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The Ballinger-Pinchot congressional inquiry was resumed today.

Glavis' leading attorney, Mr. Brandeis, of Boston, said he would not occupy the time of the committee with a preliminary statement as to what would be shown. The witness requested that his testimony be taken through an examination by his counsel. He then was sworn and Senator Nelson asked a few preliminary questions.

"What, if anything, do you claim to have been amiss in the administration of the public lands?" was the poser the chairman shot at the witness.

Glavis said he could not answer the question briefly.

"Go ahead and tell it all in your own way," directed Senator Nelson.

Glavis commenced by going back to the time when he began work as a field agent of the land office on the Wilson Coal company cases in Lewis county, Washington, in 1901 and 1902. Mr. Ballinger, he said, was attorney for the Wilson company.

Glavis said he referred to these cases as leading up to the Alaska claims which formed the principal subject of the inquiry.

He declared that Ballinger's name did not appear in the court records of the Washington coal claims, and that he did not appear in court at any time. The witness said Mr. Ballinger never drew up an agreement with the Wilson company, and that he had no government connection at the time of this appearance.

Agreement Unlawful.
Representative Olmstead, of Pennsylvania, questioned the witness for a few minutes. Glavis said he resided now at White Salmon, Wash., and was in the fruit growing business.

Questioned by his own counsel, Glavis charged that when the escrow agreement in the Wilson case was drawn up by Ballinger it was an unlawful proceeding.

Glavis said the information came to him as the entrymen had no right at the time to enter into this agreement. The agreement, however, was never signed.

A stipulation had been entered into by the government counsel in the Wilson cases and the attorneys for the claimants, whereby the name of Mr. Ballinger was not to appear. The witness said the records would bear him out. The counsel for the government was P. C. Sullivan and

Dr. Richmond spoke on the subject of "Preventable Diseases" and showed how tuberculosis could be checked by proper observance of the rules of health and cleanliness. Drs. W. J. Bass and C. P. FIVE CREAL SPRINGS
BOYS JOIN THE ARMY

Creal Springs, Ill., has suddenly leaped into prominence as the domicile of raw recruits, and as a result five young men of that town, eager to become soldiers, are being held here at the local recruiting station on probation. Sergeant Blake received a letter this morning from Monroe Parker, of Creal Springs, who said that he had a vision or some kind of a prementiment that he was destined for the army. This vision came last summer, according to the letter, and since that time the young man has been summoning courage to write. He gave his address and told Sergeant Blake to notify him if he wanted any more men. Sergeant Blake, anxious to have a look at the young man, forwarded him a letter today, telling him to come and stand the examination. Sergeant Joseph Kresky returned home from Princeton last night. He was unaccompanied, but says there is some material there.

CIRCULARS SENT TO HIGH SCHOOL

URGING THEM TO SELECT THEIR SPEAKERS AT ONCE.

Paducah Local Contest Will Be Held
Probably February 12.

BASKETBALL GAME ON TONIGHT

All of the High schools in the Western Kentucky Oratorical league have been sent circular letters, asking the students to select their representative for the contest, which will be held in Paducah February 25. As soon as selected, the student is expected to send his subject to the Paducah officers of the league, so that the program may be arranged. The contest will be held in the Kentucky theater. The prospects are that the interest will be great, and a crowded house seems assured for the orators.

The primary contest for the High school is unsettled yet, but it is probable that it will be held February 12. At present the candidates are busy arranging their orations. It will be difficult to pick the winner as several good speakers have announced their intention of competing. Among those who will enter the contest are: Misses Ruth McClesney, Ruby McDonald, Virginia Warren and Messrs. Marvin Sills, David Humphreys, Pitman Harth, and Charles Endris.

Basket Ball.

Tonight two exhibition games will be played between the four High school basketball teams. The two girls teams will compete. Last week the game ended in a tie, and an interesting game is expected. The boys have two fast teams, and a game replete with team work is expected.

The girls will line up: First team—Mary Jones, center; Martha Cope and Kathleen Garrow, forwards; Ruth McClesney and Grace Stewart, guards. Second team—Clara Stewart, center; Henrietta Kahn and Ira Jones, forwards; Hannah Corbett and Ida Lea Steager, guards.

The boys will line up: First team—King, center; Browning and Ogilvie forwards; Sills and Endris, guards. Second team—Yarbro, center; Elliott and Hughes, forwards; Harth and Gardner, guards.

Will Senator Linn Explain?

"I shall also favor extending the provisions of the county unit bill to each county in the state alike without exception."

That is what Conn Linn said in his letter to Dr. Adams, when he was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for senator in 1907, and that is what he told the people of his district, when he was seeking their support. Upon that assurance they nominated and elected him, and he holds to today his seat in the senate of Kentucky by reason of that promise he made to his people. What has changed him in his position upon this measure? What reason can he give, if he violates that promise? It is the same question now as it was then. He made a solemn contract with the people of his district that if they would elect him, he would support this bill. The floor of the senate is open to him, upon a question of personal privilege, to tell why he has changed. Silence is no answer; it is a confession. The published letter that he wrote to Dr. Adams demands some explanation from him. There is no excuse whatever for his remaining silent.—Kentucky State Journal.

Do You Ever Examine the Companies Behind Your Fire Insurance Companies?

You may not believe it, but it is not an uncommon thing for some one to suffer a fire loss and when they come to adjust it find the company carrying their insurance is a weak proposition and only able to pay about half the loss. You fully investigate a bank before you deposit money with it, and it behooves you to fully investigate your insurance companies.

We court investigations of our companies, and guarantee the best line of strong financial institutions you will find anywhere.

"Three Twins" delighted an immense audience at the Kentucky theater last night; but we would advise the management to tuck Tom Whiffen in bed every night with a hot water bottle. We hate to think what would happen to that show if Mr. Whiffen should take the grip. No doubt many of the spectators came away believing they had been laughing at "Three Twins" but they were laughing at Tom Whiffen. He is the alpha and the omega, the sine qua non, the whole works—ah! Now we have it—he is the second hand; without him the minutes drag during the performance. No cleaner cut comedian has appeared here in musical comedy for many a day, and singing, dancing, talking or in pantomime, he is a delight to one, who loves to laugh.

Back of him he has one of the biggest, best looking, best singing, best dancing choruses that has visited Paducah this season, and when the stage director has the bunch on the stage, he knows how to handle an ensemble scene with rare effect.

"The Newlyweds and Their Baby," the big music show that comes to the Kentucky on Monday evening, January 31, carry their special train of three coaches. A heavy advance sale indicates a most successful engagement.

John W. Vogel's big city minstrels boasts of a silver cornet band of 21 pieces, under the direction of Jos. L. Finning and a double symphony orchestra of 15, and the Louisiana Glee club supply the vocal numbers. John W. Vogel's big city minstrels will appear at the Kentucky on an early date and should be witnessed by a crowded house.

"Graustark," the play that attracted so much attention last season in New York and Chicago, will be one of the early offerings at the Kentucky February 2.

"The Girl Question" begins its engagement for one night at the Kentucky January 27. There are thirty chorus girls in this production, the majority of whom make a complete change of costumes four times in each scene. There is no doubt that this engagement will prove as popular as the one played here last season, when unquestionably the show made a decided hit leaving a trail of remembrance behind it, not only in this city, but in all other cities between New York and San Francisco.

WHEN DINNER COMES

One Ought to Have a Good Appetite.

A good appetite is the best sauce. It goes a long way toward helping in the digestive process, and that is absolutely essential to health and strength.

Many persons have found that Grape-Nuts food is not only nourishing but is a great appetizer. Even children like the taste of it and grow strong and rosy from its use.

It is especially the food to make a weak stomach strong and create an appetite for dinner.

"I am 57 years old," writes a Tenn. grandmother, "and have had a weak stomach from childhood. By great care as to my diet I enjoyed a reasonable degree of health, but never found anything to equal Grape-Nuts as a standby."

"When I have no appetite for breakfast and just eat to keep up my strength, I take 4 teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts with good rich milk, and when dinner comes I am hungry. While if I go without any breakfast I never feel like eating dinner. Grape-Nuts for breakfast seems to make a healthy appetite for dinner."

"My little 13-months-old grandson had been very sick with stomach trouble during the past summer, and finally we put him on Grape-Nuts. Now he is growing plump and well. When asked if he wants his nurse or Grape-Nuts, he brightens up and points to the cupboard. He was no trouble to wean at all—thanks to Grape-Nuts." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

The show this season, in every particular, is infinitely better than last, being better staged and the chorus prettier and more finished, the specialties and singing go with that dash and vim that always finds a ready reception and response on the part of the audience.

"Cab 23," the "tabloid" comedy which is to be presented at the Kentucky Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee, is not a literary effort, but is, as its advertising announces, "a vehicle built for laughing purposes only," and it is full of scenes and situations that are sidesplitting. Those who wish to enjoy an hour's real hearty enjoyment at a bargain price should not fail to witness this attraction. Two performances are given each evening beside the Saturday matinee, all at ten cents admission price.

WASHINGTON NEWS

Henry M. Hoyt, and the proceedings against the Wilson claimants are still pending. Glavis claimed that Ballinger's participation amounted to a conspiracy in a fraudulent claim against the government.

Glavis next turned to the Alaska coal fields and described in detail the location and extent of the Cunningham claims.

President Ballinger was not present when the hearing began. After Glavis had proceeded for half an hour or more, going into the details of the Cunningham claims, Representative Denby, of Michigan, interrupted him.

Attorney Speaks for Glavis. Representative James, of Kentucky, said he thought the witness should be allowed to proceed in his own way.

Representative Graham, of Illinois, (Democrat) suggested that Glavis' counsel should make the statement. This course was finally decided upon and Attorney Brandeis arose to address the committee.

Mr. Brandeis said that Glavis' attention was first called to the fraudulent coal land claims when Glavis was in Seattle as chief of field division in 1907. Ballinger at that time was commissioner of the land office. Glavis heard that a number of prominent people in Seattle were interested in the fraudulent claims in Alaska. Glavis met Special Agent Jones, of the land office, who was on his way to Alaska to investigate the Alaska claims.

When Jones after a preliminary investigation, returned to Seattle in August, 1907, he was directed to report at once to Commissioner Ballinger, who was in Seattle at the time.

"We claim," said Mr. Brandeis, "that Commissioner Ballinger thereupon modified the orders which had been given to Jones by Assistant Commissioner Dennett to make a full and thorough investigation, making one or two affidavits in each group, instead of fully covering the matter. Mr. Ballinger also stated that if patents could not be granted on the lands as matters stood, relief would be required of congress."

Jones had been sent to Alaska because Special Agent Love, of the department, who had jurisdiction, lived in Alaska, and was more or less closely identified with the claimants. Love, however, aided Jones in the work.

Ballinger Ignored Requests. "There were repeated conferences in Seattle between Jones and Ballinger, and various directions were given by Ballinger, both to Jones and to Love. There was a full discussion as to the rights, legality and fraud of the Alaska claims."

Mr. Brandeis then went more briefly into the Glavis charges against Secretary Ballinger as presented to President Taft, and acted upon by the president. The speaker said that recommendations by Glavis and Jones in the Alaska case were not acted upon by Commissioner Ballinger.

Glavis sought an affidavit from a man named Davis. The latter said that he had talked the matter over with Ballinger and had been told not to make any statement; to wait until charges had been filed by the government. After this, Glavis came to Washington and argued with the land office as to the danger of a scandal in the Alaska cases. He was then directed to proceed with a full investigation. Soon after he left Washington, however, ex-Gov. Miles C. Moore came here to consult Mr. Ballinger, to see whether the claims could not be hurried to patent.

Senator Nelson charged the attorney with withholding the fact that Moore was referred to the assistant secretary of the interior, as Ballinger had had nothing to do with the claims.

"This having been the case, when he ceased to be commissioner he took the position as counsel for some of these claimants."

Senator Sutherland, of Utah, interrupted: "You don't claim that Ballinger acted corruptly as commissioner, but that he made improper use of the information which he had obtained?"

"That is not all," replied the attorney. "The fact that he acted at all with reference to the continuance of the contest was not consistent with the highest conduct as an officer of the government."

"Then you claim he acted corruptly, or improperly?" asked Senator Sutherland.

"Yes—improperly; that he acted without due regard to the interest of the government while commissioner. Also that he acted improperly afterward in taking employment from the claimants who had been before him as commissioner.

"We claim that Ballinger's action as commissioner was improper in his failure to thoroughly investigate the Alaska claims."

"That he acted improperly in ordering these claims to patent, and we charge that they were on the road to patent with undue haste, when Glavis intervened and saved them."

Journal Evidenced Fraud.

"I am stating what is distinctly a fact, and about which there can be no question," said Mr. Brandeis. "In January, 1908, Glavis heard that Ballinger had ordered the Cunningham claims to 'clear listing' for patent. He at once telegraphed, asking that this action be suspended, and came on to Washington. He said he had just secured possession of the Cunningham journal, which bore conclusive evidence of fraud. He met ex-Governor Moore and Clarence Cunningham here and was told by Moore that but for Glavis' action the land would have gone to patent. Glavis also discovered that contrary to all practice, Cunningham and other claimants had received information as to what the field agents of the department were doing. Cunningham said he had copies of all the papers on file and there was nothing in them to prevent the lands going to patent."

Mr. Brandeis claimed that when Glavis finally was directed to make a full and thorough examination, he was given only two months and said it would be impossible to have prepared the government's case against the claimants in that time.

The attorney again was interrupted and asked to outline the specific charges against Secretary Ballinger. "It appears, first," said Mr. Brandeis, "that Mr. Ballinger, while commissioner of the land office, took an active part in the controversy and investigation which arose as to the validity of the Alaska coal lands, and by ordering some of the claims to patent, acquired knowledge of importance. That he acted improperly in allowing the Alaska claimants to see all the papers on file in the department. Cunningham said, in a letter, on file at Juneau, that Commissioner Ballinger gave him the papers."

Ballinger Denies Charges. "You are aware," interrupted Representative Olmstead, "that Secretary Ballinger specifically denies all this?" "Yes," replied Mr. Brandeis, "and we will ask you to consider all our statements in connection with this denial."

"Then," interrupted Mr. Madison, "you do claim Mr. Ballinger acted corruptly?"

Mr. Brandeis launched into a reply with some show of feeling. "I have not used the word corruptly," he exclaimed in a high pitched voice; "I have desired to bring the facts before the committee. I deem it a matter of great solemnity and that no charge of corruption should be made. It is a matter for the committee to determine whether the great trust of holding this land for the benefit of the people and for future generations is in safe hands. We make no charge except the charge of facts. It is for you gentlemen to determine what the safety and the honor of the country demands."

In connection with the Wilson Coal company case, Mr. Brandeis charged that Ballinger acted as counsel—though his name did not appear in a case which involved perjury on the part of the claimants and a fraud upon the land laws.

Mr. Brandeis promised that the investigation now on would bring out more than was contained in the charges filed by Mr. Glavis with the president; that there are facts, statements and documents not then in his possession.

This ended the attorney's statement, and he resumed the examination of the witness.

Glavis Again on Stand. Glavis proceeded to tell of his conversation with young Charles Davis, of Seattle, when Davis said he would not make an affidavit as he had been advised against it by Judge Ballinger.

"Do you know any reason why Davis should not come here and testify first hand?" asked a member of the committee.

"No, sir," replied Glavis, "except that he is one of the claimants."

This called out a laugh. Glavis said that Davis made this statement to him the first time that he met him.

During the discussion of the testimony of young Davis an interesting and perhaps significant colloquy occurred between Senator Nelson and Representative Graham, one of the Democratic members. Senator Nelson sought to draw from the witness and his counsel the fact that they had no knowledge that Mr. Ballinger personally received some letters addressed to the commissioner of the land office and that this mail may have gone to other persons.

Representative Graham interrupted with the remark that he thought the burden of proof would be upon Mr. Ballinger in this connection. He thought that in an important matter like this the commissioner of the land office ought to know all that was going on, or to issue orders that he should know what was going on.

"The burden is on him," concluded

Representative Graham, "to show that he did not know what was in these letters."

Senator Nelson in announcing an adjournment at 5:05 p. m., endeavored to get permission to resume the sitting today, but several members of the committee said that they had other duties, and the resumption of the inquiry was set for 10 a. m. Friday, when Glavis will continue his testimony.

NATION WIDE IS
BEEF TRUST PROBE

QUESTIONING BEFORE GRAND JURY SHOWS THIS.

Books and Documents of National Packing Company Are Introduced.

WADE ELLIS GOES TO CHICAGO.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—There is an undercurrent of excitement over the expected clash between the administration and the judicial department of the government today, when Assistant Attorney General Wade Ellis arrives from Washington, instructed to take charge of the investigation of the meat packing industry. Federal Judge Landis says he won't let Ellis interfere. Secretary-Treasurer Snow,
of the National Packing company,
again before the jury today.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—That the government investigation into the affairs of the so-called "beef trust" is to be nation wide was shown following the questioning before the federal grand jury of Charles F. Snow, secretary and treasurer of the National Packing company.

It was learned that the books and other documents of the following concerns have been laid before the jury:

G. H. Hammond & company, of Michigan; G. H. Hammond, of Illinois; Hammond Beef company, of Michigan; Hammond Packing company, of Colorado; Hammond Packing company of Philadelphia; Hammond Packing company, of Toledo;
O. Hammond company, of New York; American Refrigerating Car
company, of Illinois; Powder Packing company, of Kansas; United Dressed Beef company of New York; St. Louis
Dressed Beef and Provision company, of Missouri; Hutchinson Packing company, of Kansas; National Car Line company, of New Jersey,
and the Provision Dealer's Dispatch,
of Illinois.

It was also learned that subpoenas
had been issued for employees and officials of Armour & company; Morris & company; Swift & company. Besides
Mr. Snow those questioned were Henry F. Meyer, department manager for Armour & company; and Everett Wilson, superintendent of branches of Armour & company.

Each witness was examined behind closed doors and no information as to the line of inquiry into the alleged price fixing methods was given out.

District Attorney Sims declined to comment on the situation. It was learned he had arranged to carry on the probe for at least six weeks.

Wade Goes to Chicago.
Washington, Jan. 27.—Wade H.
Ellis, assistant to the attorney general, left for Chicago, where he will assist local officials in the proceedings before the federal grand jury in the cases against the beef packers.

Priceless Treasures Lost.
Priceless treasures were stolen from
W. P. Albert, a prominent farmer of Maxon Mills. Four hams, smoked in old fashioned manner, were stolen from his smokehouse. Owing to the high price of meat, and the fact that good old country ham is scarce, Mr.
Albert feels his loss keenly.

The Rev. W. H. Pinkerton, formerly pastor of the First Christian

FIRST SHOWING OF SPRING SILKS AND WORSTEDS; PROPER SPRING MATERIALS

The increased demand for silks
and dress goods is due to the fact that women are realizing the sane-ness of ready-to-wear dresses and
are demanding individuality in dress.
They are tired of being dressed in uniform as it were and are asking for something different which can only be had by having made what they want. This season will be marked by a 100 per cent increase in cut silks and dress goods, that is women all over the country will buy and have made up to suit their individual taste twice as many dresses this season as last.

We realized this situation many months ago and placed orders for more silks and more dress fabrics
than any other season of the past.
A great per cent of these have been received by us and are on display,
great quantities of the new woollens
and practically the same amount of new silks. Among the new arrivals of silks are royal tussors, Mineru,
shantung, shah silks, natural pon-
gees, fancy foulards, checked taffetas, which are considered very smart
for spring wear.

We invite all to look these new materials over and acquaint yourself
with what is proper for the coming seasons.

MUSLIN UNDERWEAR

Wednesday of this week we closed
the most successful muslin underwear sale we ever put on. Women were quick to realize the splendid qualities Ogilvie was offering, hundreds took advantage of the sale and laid in a generous supply.

To those who failed to supply all
their needs or those who did not buy
a sufficient amount we will for a few days more continue the sale, also adding many garments that were late in arriving.

THE GREAT POPULARITY
OF LINENS INCREASING

Now Included Among the Necessities of Dress.

WEEK END SALE OF NOTE

Linens have come to have the same standing among summer fabrics as broadcloth has among winter.
No matter how many other summer
frocks a person has at least one linen is necessary. The whole world of fashion realizes this and in every summer wardrobe there should be at least one linen suit, one or more linen skirts and one or more complete dresses of light weight linen.

Many women consider linen expensive, but that is an entirely mistaken idea, for when one considers the many advantages linens have over ordinary fabrics they will immediately recognize the savings.
Linens will wear five times as long as cotton. Linen will wash easier and better than cotton and linens
have a dignity that is impossible to obtain from cotton.

During our white goods sale we practically sold out entirely all of our first shipment of linens. This gives you some idea of the amount of linens we sell each year. Ogilvie's is known in this section of the country over for the values they sell in linens, it is a known fact that we sell
as much linen as many stores twice
our size in larger cities.

Now we have received our second linen shipment and the lot goes on sale this week end. There are many kinds contained in this shipment
that failed to reach us in the previous one, therefore during this week end you can receive some remarkable values, such as 40-inch linen sheeting, extra heavy weight at $1
per yard. 36-inch linen lawn, a special quality controlled by us in this section, a 75c value, for 59c per yard. 36-inch linen lawn, extra sheer quality, a special value, worth 65c,
offered at 59c per yard. 36-inch linen cambric, a splendid grade, that we will sell very special, at 65c per yard. 44-inch Irish, a bargain at 45c per yard. This grade is worth at least 65c.

These are only a few of the very special numbers of linens contained in our shipment. All women who

The Warner Corset Co. has created
two new styles in their spring lines
which will prove very wonderful sell-

plain to you their advantages. No.

for those wishing the best effect
from their new spring garments; it
retails at $1.50 a pair.

No. 601 is the greatest $1.00 seller they have ever made. It is similar to the No. 255, with the exception of a lower bust. We expect this to be our best $1.00 number this spring and summer. Remember, all of Warner's Rust Proof Corsets have the security hose supporters attached and that no better corsets are made at any price.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 27.

Daily Thought.

We sleep, but the loom of life

never sleeps, and the pattern which was weaving when the sun went down is weaving when it comes up in the morning.—H. W. Beecher.

"The Girl Question," "The New

Weeks" and the "Three Twins", all

within a week, and not a problem

play in the lot.

If the law of supply and demand

is not responsible for the price of meat, does anyone expect to reduce the price by curtailing the demand?

Dr. D. K. Pearson, of Chicago,

millionaire, says he has discovered

"giving is the most exquisite of man-dane delights". We fear that to any man, who waits until he is rich before he gives, it is having it to give

that affords the "exquisite delight."

How can we bear to contaminate

the shades of our county academy

with the elements of agriculture and hints on stock raising? Must we break up the classic continuity of our

Greek and Latin courses, that the sons of farmers may study the science of the soil? Weren't pap and grand pap and yet his daddy farmers?

And didn't they all manage to grub

a living out of the old place? Send

a boy to school to learn the relations of soil chemicals to vegetation, to study the culture of cereals,

and the problems of marketing produce and live stock? Learn them things on the farm. B'gosh! Sendin'

Jim and Bob to the county High school to make lawyers of 'em may be—er doctors or stockraisers.

Wouldn't it be a boy of mine down to the farm. Nothin' in it. Critters

is high, but you have to feed 'em

sixty-cent corn, an' they ain't nothin'

in that. Bill's kind 'o slow, and ain't no git up about him. Better keep Bill on the farm. The other boys 'll need Bill's help when they set up to practice.

COMETS.

Whence come the comets and where do they go? We know not;

but we do know they have their habits and they appear periodically,

much like some people. The irregular ones have their habits just as the normal commonplace people, who appear regularly like the stars set in the heaven, each in his appointed costellation. It is comprehensible and satisfying that the stars remain in

juxtaposition held by a law, of whose infallibility we are sure, though we do not understand it, just as we feel safe in the social stability of most men.

But a comet swinging athwart our orbit, coming out of the unknown,

illimitable space, manifesting phenomena unusual in the heavens of

our vision, and passing with its train

of attendant circumstances back into

that space, piquing our curiosity, but

throwing no light on the mystery

whose existence its presence only emphasizes, attracts more attention than

do the stars we know are always there. Yet that comet is composed of the same material that compose

the other stars, obeys the same laws

and eventually must pass through the same transformation. Some influence

has exaggerated its eccentricity; that is all.

For all these planets and stars are slightly eccentric, each influencing the other, and being influenced by other

constellations, also revolving in more or less eccentric orbits. Comets, lacking stability of character, as it were,

swing by and through these constella-

tions, influenced first this way and then that, but let us not forget, also

exerting an influence, though feeble

as compared with the combined influence of grouped constellations.

Here in this little world of ours,

did we know it, we have all the physical elements, spiritual forces

and natural laws and phenomena,

that are infinitely reproduced throug-

out the universe, whose immensity we cannot apprehend. Could we project

our vision hundreds of millions of miles into space we might find, what

the boy found, who longed to climb

the mountain that obstructed his view, and when he did so found other

mountains like the one he had assembled still obstructing his view. For had he studied the one he climbed,

he would have known all mountains.

mittee—the increase for the police-

ment and firemen, the lifting of half

the school debt, (both pet projects of

The Evening Sun), the west end fire station, the tuberculosis tent colony

or the deposit for the Island creek bridge. They all spell the word

P-R-O-G-R-E-S-S in capital letters.

It is pleasing, too, to observe that the board of public works, which

evinced so great economy last year,

was not cut in its appropriation.

Indeed, it would ill become the general council after ordering $13,000

worth of extra work done, to reduce the appropriation, and the finance committee evidently so thought. Nor would it be wise to permit streets

once repaved to deteriorate.

We are not dubious about the ability of the departments to get through on the apportionments. We believe that by the exercise of the closest scrutiny they can do it, and that is what the taxpayers demand.

If there is an extra $3,000 remaining after providing for the estimated

budget and unanticipated expenses,

we suggest that the balance of the school debt be lifted.

A JOKER IN THE SCHOOL LAW.

We say frankly we don't like the Second class city school bill as we are informed it is introduced. There is a joker in it, if a thing so palpable could be called by so significant

a title. We object to that business manager at $2,000 a year. If we have $2,300 extra to spend on our schools we will divide it among the teachers and superintendent. We favor reducing the school board to

five men elected from the city at large, a special election for them and

a non-partisan ballot; but it is even more important to defeat that $2,000

business manager proposition than

to enact the remainder of the bill.

It is much in the same shape as the juvenile court law, which was prepared by the most single-minded of reformers; but before it could be passed the $1,200 to $2,400 juvenile

officer, appointed by the county judge

and paid by the taxpayers of the city, must be tacked on to satisfy

the politicians, and all we got was the juvenile officer.

The business manager, if this city

had 60,000 school children, we have no doubt, would be a valuable officer, and $2,000 salary a modest stipend; but he would be of no use in

Paducah and would relieve the school trustees of none of their responsibilities. Indeed, his salary

would only add to their perplexities,

and school board elections would be a contest between friends of candidates for the job.

Whether we have a business manager

or not, the trustees will be responsible for stretching the abbreviated income of the schools over the necessary expenses, and they will be compelled to scan every item of expenditure closely. It might relieve the superintendent of some troubles,

in order that he might devote the time given to them to the strictly administrative problems; but, if we understand the temper of Superintendent Carnegie, he is perfectly willing to go along, working with the board, if only he can keep as

good one as he has now, and revenue

sufficient to properly finance his efforts to build up the schools is forthcoming.

We have no objection to making

a conditional provision in the law

for a business manager, so that if

Lexington, Covington or Newport

desires an official, whom we would

deem a superfluity and an extravagance, it may do so; but we certainly

object to saddling $2,000 more expense on our present very much embarrassed schools.

White Goods Sale

It has always been our pleasure to give the ladies of Paducah and vicinity each year a feast of white goods bargains—at this time of year. A sale of everything in white that one could desire. Values unequalled in quality and low prices by any they could buy elsewhere. Each year they look forward to this event and lay in all their immediate and many future needs. This year it behooves you more than ever to buy during this sale for special price concessions will be made that cannot be duplicated later. We promise you this year, a bigger selection and better values than ever. It is not necessary to say when we bought the goods and how we got them, etc.—suffice it to say we have the goods and a look will convince you. The date of our Annual Saving Sale of White will be announced in a few days. Begin today planning what you will require this spring in white goods, wash goods, lace, muslin underwear, embroideries and all household linens—make a list and watch for the big event.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

Federation Midwinter Meeting.

Says the Kentucky State Journal, Frankfort, on January 26.

"The members of the Executive Committee and the Board of Directors of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs held two interesting meetings yesterday, one in the morning at the Public Library, and the second in the afternoon at the home of Miss Lillian Lindsay on Wapping street. Reports were read from the chairman of committees, and plans and arrangements made for the meeting of the whole Federation in May. After the morning meeting, all the ladies went over to the New Capitol and they were enthusiastic over its beauty, and Mrs. Barnett suggested what a charming idea it would be to have tea on the Terrace, like the English, who have their afternoon teas on the Terrace of the Parliament building. The meeting of the State Federation will be held in Frankfort, May the twenty-fifth, twenty-sixth and twenty-seventh, and will be one of the most important and memorable meetings the Federation has ever held. The program was arranged in part yesterday and includes many delightful features. The first evening there will be an address of welcome by Governor Wilson. After the response, each of the vice-presidents of the Federation will give the special feature of her administration. The second evening will be given to the report of the legislative work during the session. A reception will be given the third evening at the New Capitol. Governor and Mrs. Wilson, Lieut. Gov. and Mrs. Cox, and the state officials will be invited to receive with the officers and chairman of the State Federation. On the twenty-sixth the Federation has been invited to an unveiling of the restored Daniel Boone statue by the Rebecca Boone chapter of the D. A. R. The meetings during the day will be given over to reports of committees, clubs and election of officers. It has been decided to use home talent in the programs arranged, unless some guests should be given by distinguished visitors to the meeting of the General Federation in Cincinnati the week preceding the state meeting here, other arrangements will be made later, and the meeting adjourned yesterday afternoon. Several of the ladies remained over to attend the State Conference of Churches and Correction, which will begin today. Those present at the meeting yesterday were: Mrs. Leach, president of the State Federation; Mrs. Bennett, Miss Lafon, Miss Breed, Miss Rawson, all of Louisville; Mrs. A. M. Harrison, of Lexington; Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Smith, of Richmond; Mrs. Desha Brockridge, of Lexington; Mrs. Lafon Riker, of Harrodsburg; Mrs. Bartlett and daughter Miss Henrietta Bartlett, of Lawrenceburg; Mrs. Mitchell, of Bowling Green; Mrs. Thixton, of Owensboro; Miss Laura Clay, Miss Lucella Boyd, of Covington; Mrs. Minor Simpson, of Lexington; Mrs. Charles McDowell, of Danville; Mrs. John B. Castleman, of Louisville."

Morning Bridge-Luncheon on the "Lilly."

Commander M. L. Miller, inspector of the St. Louis light house district, was the host Wednesday, on board the boat "Lilly," at a bridge luncheon. The guests left the city at 10 o'clock for Mechanicsburg, where the "Lilly" is moored. Mrs. Victor Voris chaperoned the party, which included Misses Faith Langstaff, Elizabeth Shinnott, Marie Cobb, Philippa Hughes, Eunice Evans, of Ohio, and Little Miss Elsie Eunice Voris. Captain Miller was assisted in his duties as host by Capt. Eagan. The party returned to the city in time to attend Mrs. David Koger's Entre Nous Bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Ham Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ham, of the Bowers road, entertained a number of their friends last Tuesday evening with a musical. A most enjoyable time was spent. January 1, 1910, there were 27 girls, 14 boys and 5 women inmates of the Home.

Language to Suit.

The selection of the right word to convey one's meaning is sometimes more important than the rules of grammar. So it appeared to the bridge policeman, who is an alert sociological student, says the New York Sun. An East Side resident of foreign birth was taken before the magistrate in one of the police courts charged with a trivial offense.

"Tell him he must not do it again. He is discharged," the magistrate said to the policeman on the bridge. "The judge says you dassent do it 'Undersand'!" almost shouted the policeman to the prisoner.

"Hold on, officer. I didn't dare him to break the law again. I said 'must not.'"

"That's all right, your honor. He understands what I said better'n he would what you said," explained the policeman. And the prisoner seemed to think so, too.

ASQUITH WINS, THEN MOBBED

POLICE FINALLY CONVEY PREMIER TO SAFETY.

Liberals and Laborites Predicted to Have Combined Majority—Secretary's Majority.

ALL MINISTERS RE-ELECTED.

London, Jan. 27.—Following the election of Premier Asquith, the premier was mobbed by militant suffragettes. The women in a body charged time after time in their attempts to reach the minister, and there were several lively skirmishes with the police before Mr. Asquith was conveyed to a place of safety.

The combined strength of the Liberal, Labor and Nationalist coalition has reached 345 or more than half the number of members of the house of commons. A Unionist government, therefore, is out of the question, and the only point still undecided is the exact strength of the coalition majority. But if an independent Liberal majority is equally out of the question, only a short life can be predicted for the incoming government and as a matter of fact both the Liberal and Unionist parties are looking away from the present struggle into the not distant future when the conflict at the polling booths will be renewed.

The party organizers have already been instructed to keep up unceasing vigilance and to be prepared for an appeal to the country at any moment.

There is no doubt that the success of the Conservatives has been largely due to the constant education of the agricultural population in the virtues of tariff reform, and this education will now be carried into the northern counties and Scotland in the hope of winning these territories at the next election. The Liberals on the other hand, will concentrate their attention on educating the country on the questions of free trade and the limitation of the veto of the house of lords.

Laborites Have Measure. As an example of the difficulties facing the government at the coming session, apart from the house of lords and the budget, it is probable that the Labor party will introduce their "right to work" bill, which the government opposed last session. This might easily lead to the defeat of the ministry and to another dissolution.

With the return of Premier Asquith and War Minister Haldane, all the cabinet ministers have now been re-elected. Only a few additional returns were received, and the parties now stand:

Government coalition:
Liberals, 233.
Laborites, 38.
Nationalists, 74.
Opposition:
Unionists, 255.
Net gains of the Unionists to date, 98.

The city results out of thirty-nine left over from yesterday's elections to parliament gave the Unionists four gains and the Liberals two.

Premier Asquith for the east division of Fife, and Richard B. Haldane, for Haddingtonshire, were re-elected, but while the prime minister returns to parliament with a substantial increase of 615 over his former majority, the secretary of state for war must be satisfied with a majority less by 4,435 than that obtained in 1906.

John A. Simon, the Liberal member, elected for the Walthamstow division of Essex, is a well known barrister and was counsel for Great Britain in the Alaska boundary arbitration case. Lord Willoughby de Broghie, the husband of Eloise, daughter of the late W. L. Broese, of New York, again represents the Unionists in the North Castle division of Lincolnshire, being returned with a greatly increased majority.

OF FARMERS

MANY QUESTIONS WILL BE ASKED NEXT SPRING.

Census Enumerators Will Wish to Know All About Their Affairs.

Western Kentucky farmers will be asked a long string of questions when the census enumerators strike them. There are 59 quizzes that must be answered by every farmer operating on three or more acres. Detailed information covering every department of the farm including the expense of maintenance, the cost of producing various stocks, and all the data necessary to enable Uncle Sam's experts to figure out the prospect of America becoming an importing food nation. The questions are designed to establish fully the identity of the farmer, the length of time he has been on the farm, and his success. The questions are:

Farm acreage, April 15, 1910; farm value, April 15, 1910; mixed tenure; mortgage indebtedness,

April 15, 1910; farm expenses; land owned, but not operated by farmer; cattle; swine; horses and mules; asses and burros; animals born on the farm during 1910; pure-bred animals; domestic animals boarded or pastured; wool or mohair (goat hair) shorn in 1910; dairy products in 1909; fowls over three months old on the farm, April 15, 1910; fowls and eggs produced in 1909; bees and honey; grain and seeds; hay and forage; sundry crops (cotton included in this inquiry); small fruits; orchard fruits; grapes; farm garden; vegetables produced in 1909; crops grown for sugar in 1909; flowers, nursery stock, etc.; land under grass; forest products produced in 1909; sales of specified products in 1909; fruit products produced in 1909; pasture land; irrigation.

On motion of Mr. Klair this bill was made a special order for Thursday at 11 o'clock. The house bill, No. 147, providing for the separation of white and colored prisoners in the houses of reform, was made a special order for 11:15 o'clock tomorrow. The parole bill, No. 148, was recommitted to the committee on penitentiaries and houses of reform for the purpose of having slight amendments made.

At 1:50 the senate adjourned.

Dry Make Threat.

That a determined effort will be made by the county unit supporters in the house of representatives to coerce the senate into a favorable report upon the bill dividing. The following petition is being circulated among members of the house where the county backers claim they have a majority:

"We, the undersigned members of the lower house of the general assembly of Kentucky hereby bind and pledge ourselves to work and vote against the passage or consideration of any measure coming from the senate until the county unit bill now in the senate shall have been called up and placed upon its final passage."

Representatives Bertram, Shearer and others have signed the agreement, and it is claimed that while many others are willing to back this radical step, they will decline to sign, as committing themselves too strongly against the other bills which may come before the house.

May Cause Blockade.

Should a majority of the house members line up for this proposition it will form an effective blockade against any legislation which the senate may have originated at this session.

The Rev. George Waggoner, chairman of the house committee on public morals and author of the county unit bill, is leading the fight for his measure, and says he will use every legitimate means to force a fair consideration of the bill.

The county optionists say that they desire only a vote on the bill, and that if it is defeated, they will make the best of it, but they are opposed to another measure in a committee which is hostile to all option legislation at this time.

Wets Not Dismayed.

On the other hand, the "wets" outwardly are jubilant at this latest move of the optionists in the house. They claim if the others carry out their threat to block all legislation that it will fix the blame for this condition where it belongs, and that the "drys" will have to go back to the people of Kentucky and take the responsibility of the nonenactment of many needed laws.

Some Particular Bills.

Among the many bills introduced relating to the dog tax law, most of which provide for its repeal, one offered by Representative W. P. Welch, of the Estill-Powell district, is unique in that it provides that each county in the state shall have the right to vote separately on the dog tax law proposition. The great majority of the opponents of the dog tax law are Republicans, this party thinking so much of the issue as a vote getter that its repeal has made a plank in the state platform on which Governor Wilson was elected. Those in a position to know declare that the chances for its repeal this session are very slim.

Tough on "Boys" in "Dry" Territory.

The "boys" who like their "throat varnish," and live in prohibition territory, will have to make frequent trips to the source supply, if a bill offered by Representative O. M. Kell, of the Green-Taylor district, becomes a law. The Kell measure limits to one quart the amount of intoxicating liquor which may be taken into any prohibition territory by an individual for his personal use.

Representative S. P. Parks, of Breckinridge county, is the author of a most drastic cigarette measure. Not content with absolute prohibition of the sale and distribution of cigarettes or cigarette paper or material, the Parks bill makes it a misdemeanor for a minor college student under eighteen years of age to smoke the "coffin nails" in a public road, street or public place.

Capital punishment for house-breaking is the penalty denounced in the bill introduced in the house of representatives by Representative W. F. Pittman, of Boyle county. The measure provides that where any housebreaking shall be accompanied by deadly weapons, the penalty shall be death, and where entry shall be gained without the use of deadly weapons, the penalty shall be confinement in the penitentiary for life. The author says there is urgent need for the enactment of such a law owing to the alarming increase in this crime in recent years. The same law is in effect in other states.

Taxation Bill Passed.

With but one vote against it the bill of Senator L. W. Arnett, of Covington, seeking to amend section No. 2 of Article I of an act entitled "An act relating to Revenue and Taxation" approved March 15, 1906, was passed. This bill is designed to relieve the residents of Kentucky, who live in Covington, Newport, Bellevue and other cities across the river from Cincinnati, who own stock in Cincinnati corporations. The same bill was passed at the session of 1908 but was vetoed by Governor Wilson. The bill was heartily supported by Senator Nagle, of Newport.

Hopkinsville Tobacco.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Jan. 27.—Tobacco on loose floor showed highest mark of season, going to $13.25 per hundred. All grades showed decided upward tendency, and bulk of sales ranged from $9 to $13. Everything was in demand and quotations were minimum. Deliveries continue very heavy to loose floors, rehandlers and steamers, entire market being very active.

Livestock Markets.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 27.—Cattle.—The receipts were light again, only 85 head, for the three days this week 1,238 head. There was a light attendance of buyers and a limited demand, market quiet from start to finish. Desirable butchers about steady, others dull and draggy to a shade lower. Feeders and stockers nominally steady. Bulls firm, canners and cutters dull. Milch cows unchanged. No heavy cattle here, feeling easy.

Calves—Receipts 155, for three days 317. The market ruled about steady, best 8 @ 8 1/2 c, medium 5 1/2 @ 7 1/2 c, common 2 1/2 @ 5 c.

Hogs—Receipts 1,116, for three days 4,432. The market was slow in opening, and under the influence of other market prices dropped 10 @ 20c; selected 165 lbs and up $8.35, 130 to 165 lbs. $8.65, heavy pigs $7.60, light pigs $6.75 @ 6.85, roughs $7.70 down. The market closed dull.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts light,

Russian Wheat.
The enormous crop of wheat reported from Russia is of great significance just now. It puts Russia for the first time at the head of the wheat-growing countries, this harvest of 783,000,000 bushels being some 26,000,000 bushels in excess of the large crop in the United States and about 100,000,000 greater than ever produced in Russia before. The development of wheat-growing along the line of the Siberian railway has been very rapid, and as the home consumption is small in proportion to that of this country, it has made Russia the greatest of all the sources of supply for the rest of the world. Other European countries, especially France, also raise large crops of wheat, but also consume much of it. The extent of their crops influences the demand upon outside sources—Russia, India, the United States, Canada and Argentina, the chief competitors in the export trade. The present great cost of wheat in this country, as against the large surplus in Russia, will make it difficult to hold our former place in the world market.—Philadelphia Ledger.

CHAPTER XIII.

BRAND, busily engaged in writing the caption for the cut that was to reveal Bartelmy in his true light, was interrupted once more—this time by the entrance of the greenish hued face of the poet reporter, Powell.

"You sent for me, sir?" asked the new scribe.

"So you've covered a suicide?" said Brand.

"Powwow's" eyes rolled wildly. He clasped his hands and his knees shook in his horror at what he had learned.

"Oh, yes—a terrible sight! I shall describe it to you, sir! It would take a Dante to write of it. Oh, I—"

"What was this girl's name?" asked Brand in matter of fact tones.

"Madeline."

"Madeline what?"

"Her last name," the poet asked dazedly. "I guess I don't remember. Oh, yes, it was Jenks—Madeline Jenks!" He spoke feverishly.

Brand picked up the poet's first newspaper story and began to read it. In spite of the high pressure of events that night in the Advance office, in spite of his ever present fear that Bartelmy and Dupuy might in some way persuade Nolan to order the sensational bribery story killed, this many sided young man found the time to bother with the fantastic young poet reporter and his fantastic first article.

"Madeline Jenks, eh?" commented Brand, turning over the pages. "Well, the first place you mention her name is on page 3."

He plucked off the first two pages and threw them on the floor. Powell winced painfully at the massacre of his first reportorial offspring. "Begin there," said Brand. Powell lunged downward to rescue his first two pages, but Brand kicked them away from him. "Where'd she live?" he next asked.

Powell clasped his hands and gazed plaintively at the ceiling.

"Over a chop suey cafe, sir."

"Number and street?"

"Two forty-three and a half West Pearl street."

Brand threw away two more pages, Powell watching him anxiously the while.

"Put that next. Here, Madeline Jenks," Brand began to write, "an inmate of 243½ West Pearl street. What did she do?"

"She destroyed herself utterly!" the new reporter wailed.

Brand went on writing.

"Is she dead?"

"Yes, sir."

"Shot and killed herself—when?"

"Tonight at 9 o'clock."

Brand wrote on.

"Last night at 9 o'clock. Why?"

Powell answered very intensely: "Oh, she could no longer face the ghastliness of her existence. She knew she—"

"She was weary of life in the streets."

"I don't blame her," Brand commented to himself. He turned to Powell. "There's your story. Thirty words—you had 3,000. And remember the story of the creation was told in 600 words."

Powell picked up the pages of his story which Brand had discarded and walked dejectedly away.

"Mac," Brand ordered, "here's a dance hall suicide. Put it with local brevities, will you?"

Had Brand at this moment been able to see through the wall that separated the composing room from the hall he would have witnessed a sight that would have deprived him of some of the self possession that marked his present demeanor. A figure clad in an elaborate evening gown crept softly up the stairway, stood irresolutely at the landing and then turned into the managing editor's office. Judith Bartelmy probably never looked more beautiful in her life than she did that night. A flush of excitement enhanced the soft allurements of her exquisite features, and the low cut neck of her sleeveless gown completed a picture of feminine loveliness that, innocently enough on her part, was admirably adapted to the purpose Judge Bartelmy had in his unprincipled mind when he sent her to the Advance office. "You are my only hope," he had told her after Dupuy had at first failed to locate Nolan. "You must go and plead with Wheeler Brand or else I am ruined. Your father will be ruined absolutely." At the sight of her father's emotion and yielding to the fervent pleadings of her only living parent

she had willingly consented to undertake the mission. Unpleasant though she knew it would be, she believed it her duty to stand by the father whom she loved, the father whom she did not know. As she entered the office and paused in conjecture as to just how she would proceed she heard footsteps hurriedly ascending the stairs, and, withdrawing into a shadow in a corner, she saw Michael Nolan and Mrs. Nolan cross the hall and disappear into the composing room.

"Think heaven!" she murmured fervently. "They will stop this story, which father says is a horrible lie." Wheeler Brand will never forget—

"Remember the story of the creation was told in 600 words."

has since said so from the depths of his soul—the shock that went through him when he saw Nolan, accompanied by his wife, making their way toward him on that memorable night.

McHenry was speaking when they entered.

"There is your first page, Brand," he was saying, "and it sends Bartelmy to state prison."

The managing editor gazed approvingly at the appearance of the page of type and the cut in the form as it lay exposed on one of the stones under a shaded electric light. He looked up to congratulate McHenry on the manner in which he had completed the makeup of the page when his jaw suddenly fell. His eyes took on an amazed stare. He was looking straight over the night editor's shoulder.

McHenry caught Brand's expression and whirled about. Then he, too, saw the owner of the Advance and his wife draw near. The triumphant air with which the wife and mother sailed along by his side boded no good to Brand and his story.

Nolan paused in front of the form without looking at the contents at first.

"Wheeler," he said kindly, "I've been notified about this story, and I think it best that I read it carefully myself, analyze it and learn all the circumstances under which it was procured before I allow it to go to press. That is a task which cannot be done in the short time that remains before press time, so we had best let it go over until tomorrow—delay it one day. That won't hurt the story any."

Mrs. Nolan clutched at the ex-miner's arm and cried shrilly:

"Now, now, Michael, that's not your usual way to explain things to one of your employees. Order him to destroy all this miserable stuff about the judge at once. Don't hesitate like this. Think what it means to me, to the children, to us," she pleaded.

"There, there, mother; you keep out of this," said Nolan kindly, yet firmly. "I'm trying to do the best I can for you. It's because of you that I'm here now. But you see—"

Ed Dupuy burst excitedly in upon them, and as the typesetters were beginning to become distracted from their work owing to the unusual situation Brand began to fear that this new intruder would prove the final demoralizer of the entire night shift.

"Mr. Nolan," cried Dupuy, "we haven't a minute to lose! They are almost ready to go to press. He looked intently at the newspaper owner.

"Yes, quite right. We do go to press very soon," cried Brand confidently, "and I know Michael Nolan is the man who will order it done."

"Michael," cried Mrs. Nolan at the top of her voice, who rose sharply over the din of the typesetting machines, "are you going to stand for this? Mr. Brand acts as if he owned the Advance and treats you as if you were the office boy. He thinks he's a great reformer and knows it all. We have heard the whole story of this miserable affair, both sides of it—Bartelmy's and my own. From our own lips. Whatever defense or explanation Bartelmy gave you I don't know. But, so far as I am concerned, I told you the facts and the truth. You must believe it. Therefore why do you or how in heaven's name can you hesitate?"

"Wheeler, my boy," he said, "I have learned much from you. I have needed contact with such a man as you. I have led a rough life for most of my career. When I rose to be chairman of the Street Railway Workers' union I did so simply through my ruggedness of character, my ability to master men. Then I was driven out into the world, an outcast, and became a day laborer in the mines. When the day came that I owned my own mine it was again a case of fight, fight, FIGHT, for the lawless claim jumpers threatened me above ground, and the lawless floods assailed me below ground. So in the life I led I did not get the opportunity to study or even become familiar with the important questions and the problems that confront the men that guide the policy of newspapers."

Nolan drew close to Brand and placed his hand affectionately on the young editor's shoulder.

"But you, Wheeler—you have taught me much about those big issues that I did not know, and you have shown to me the high ideals that should guide the newspaper writer, the newspaper editor and the newspaper owner as well. You are right in this case." His voice rose to majestic heights. "Wheeler Brand, I have learned from you that the Advance is more than a newspaper. It is a great, throbbing, potential force. It is the strong arm of the Right standing against the evil arm of the Wrong. So we must not falter. We must not delay. Show the big thieves up, Wheeler. Let the story go to press."

Nolan turned quickly away and hastened out and down into the street.

A warm glow of enthusiasm spread over the face of Wheeler Brand as he picked up a bundle of proofs.

"We'll show them up!" he cried exultantly. "We'll show them up, and we'll put them down!"

He Knew Them.

Collector Loeb, at a dinner in New York, praised a certain customs inspector.

"His success," said Collector Loeb, "is due to his knowledge of human nature. He is like a boy I used to know in Albany."

"This boy got vaccinated on the right arm, and the doctor gave him a red 'I've been vaccinated' ribbon to wear on his coat sleeve. But the lad proceeded to tie the ribbon on his left arm."

"Why," said the doctor, "you are putting the ribbon on the wrong arm."

"No," said the urchin, "you don't know the boys at our school."—Providence Journal.

MODERN HAIR DRESSING.

has played havoc with the tresses of the fair sex, and druggists everywhere comment on the fact that they are selling large quantities of sage for making the old-fashioned "sage tea," such as was used by our grandmothers for promoting the growth of their hair and restoring its natural color. The demand for this well-known herb for this purpose has been so great that one manufacturer has taken advantage of the fact, and has placed on the market an ideal "sage tea," containing sulphur, a valuable remedy for dandruff and scalp rashes and irritations. This preparation, which is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1.00 a bottle, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

For sale and recommended by W. J. Gilbert.

other people have a right to our opinions, too, and I don't see why you and your family should be made to suffer on account of him as we have had to ever since you took him up."

Judith Bartelmy heard the stormy scene, lived a part of it herself huddled in the managing editor's office. She felt that Nolan would not let the story be used from what she had heard, and she could not suppress a pang of pain that pierced her heart at what she believed to be the fanatical vindictiveness of Wheeler Brand against her father. Yet she was a true woman, and she could not, in spite of her loyalty to her parent, avoid feeling a touch of pride at his strength of character, his determination, at the sacrifices he had made, to accomplish what he believed, even if foolishly, to be his duty.

"They don't need me," she finally muttered, and gathering up her costly skirts, she tripped daintily across the paper strewn floor, out into the hall and down to her carriage.

Nolan dropped his head in thought when his wife had finished her tirade. He paced up and down nervously. He looked at the clock, then at the form with its accusing contents, then at Brand, then at his wife.

"I'll go and telephone Judge Bartelmy," put in Dupuy. "He'll be anxious."

The lawyer took himself off.

Brand saw the danger of delay. He doubted if any man would be able to successfully withstand the pressure that Bartelmy and Nolan's family would be able to bring to bear on the owner in another twenty-four hours.

"No, no," he exclaimed to Nolan. "You would fail me again. I have tried to prove this judge's guilt to the people, but I fear I have only succeeded in proving it to his daughter. A day's delay would be fatal. I know. At least Bartelmy could get another judge to issue an injunction against us even if he would not dare to do it himself. And there are other steps he might take."

His voice rose higher, and he worked himself into a frenzy of earnestness.

He stood before the little group gathered around the ink black form and continued his impassioned words:

"You know I thought we were going to be absolutely untrammelled here. You were a free man. Poverty couldn't frighten you, and you had seen both sides of life. You promised to back me up, no matter what it cost, so long as we printed the truth, but at the first big test you fail me."

Mrs. Nolan was on the point of becoming hysterical in her agitation.

"Michael, Michael!" she began.

"There, mother, you go home with Sylvester. He's waiting outside for you. After all, this is a man's job we've got here. I am the head of the family, and I will settle this matter in my own way," he said sternly. "You must not attempt further to interfere."

He led her out of the room.

Brand spoke to McHenry.

"Did you hear, Mac?" he asked. "He won't decide to run it."

"It's tough, old man—it's tough."

"This is such a live thing I don't see how I can kill it," the managing editor said, rubbing his hand over the face of the form.

"That's the best first page ever made up in America," said McHenry, with justifiable professional pride.

Brand was inconsolable.

"I've been working ten years for just this thing," he said, "something so plain that even children would see what the big thieves are doing."

"You go home!" Brand suddenly ordered McHenry.

"What?" was the surprised exclamation.

"I said go home!"

Brand's face was beginning to twitch nervously. He stood in the middle of the composing room, under the floodlight glare from a sixty-four candle power electric light, and clenched and unclenched his hands, not daring to look McHenry squarely in the face. The night editor began to guess what was passing through Brand's mind.

"Yes, but," he began to protest—"but"

Brand cut him short, saying agitatedly:

"I am still managing editor."

McHenry now realized plainly that the intensely earnest Brand had decided to run the story that very night regardless of Nolan's attitude. It would be an easy matter, as Nolan, of course, would not remain at the office much longer. And McHenry well knew that such an act would not only bring about Brand's disgrace from the Advance, but that it would as well injure his reputation in other newspaper offices, as where obedience to one's superior, as in any well regulated organization, is a man's first duty under all circumstances.

"Why, man," he exclaimed questioningly, "you're surely not going to run this story?"

Before Brand could give an answer to this last question, even if he had intended to do so, Nolan broke in on the pair.

"Mr. Nolan," began Brand, "you have heard the whole story of this miserable affair, both sides of it—Bartelmy's and my own. From our own lips. Whatever defense or explanation Bartelmy gave you I don't know. But, so far as I am concerned, I told you the facts and the truth. You must believe it. Therefore why do you or how in heaven's name can you hesitate?"

"Wheeler, my boy," he said, "I have learned much from you. I have needed contact with such a man as you. I have led a rough life for most of my career. When I rose to be chairman of the Street Railway Workers' union I did so simply through my ruggedness of character, my ability to master men. Then I was driven out into the world, an outcast, and became a day laborer in the mines. When the day came that I owned my own mine it was again a case of fight, fight, FIGHT, for the lawless claim jumpers threatened me above ground, and the lawless floods assailed me below ground. So in the life I led I did not get the opportunity to study or even become familiar with the important questions and the problems that confront the men that guide the policy of newspapers."

Nolan drew close to Brand and placed his hand affectionately on the young editor's shoulder.

"But you, Wheeler—you have taught me much about those big issues that I did not know, and you have shown to me the high ideals that should guide the newspaper writer, the newspaper editor and the newspaper owner as well. You are right in this case." His voice rose to majestic heights. "Wheeler Brand, I have learned from you that the Advance is more than a newspaper. It is a great, throbbing, potential force. It is the strong arm of the Right standing against the evil arm of the Wrong. So we must not falter. We must not delay. Show the big thieves up, Wheeler. Let the story go to press."

Nolan turned quickly away and hastened out and down into the street.

A warm glow of enthusiasm spread over the face of Wheeler Brand as he picked up a bundle of proofs.

"We'll show them up!" he cried exultantly. "We'll show them up, and we'll put them down!"

All Plumbers Will Be Required to Register Before Beginning Work.

An examining board for plumbers will be established in all First, Second and Third class cities in Kentucky provided a proposed bill is passed by the general assembly. The bill will be introduced by Lexington officials. The bill is for the purpose of requiring plumbers to register and before doing so they must undergo an examination before the board, which will be composed of four members in each city. The proposed bill prescribed that the board shall be paid in fees, not to exceed 50 per cent of the cost of the examination. The creation of the board will not entail any expense on the city, as the expense will be borne by the plumbers taking the examination. The bill has been recommended by the health department of Lexington, which seeks to prevent incompetent plumbers from working in cities.

FIVE RUNS

ANSWERED BY FIRE DEPARTMENT IN A DAY.

No Serious Blazes Resulted, Though Some Looked Extremely Dangerous.

A defective flue resulted in the roof of a house at the northwest corner of Eighth and Ohio streets catching fire last night at 8:30 o'clock. The fire was burning briskly in the attic when the firemen reached the scene, but the flames were quenched quickly. The loss will amount to about $150. The house was occupied by negroes. Hose companies

No. 1 and 4 and truck company No. 4 responded to the alarm.

Yesterday afternoon a grass fire caught some fencing at 817 North Sixth street. Hose company No. 3 and truck company No. 4 answered the alarm. No damage resulted.

A stable belonging to C. W. Morrison at 1101 North Twelfth street, caught fire, but was discovered before it had gained headway. Hose company No. 3 made a quick run and snuffed the blaze before it did much damage.

Five runs were answered by the fire department which is the largest number of runs made by the department this year. All of the fires were smothered quickly, and if the good record is kept up 1910 will be a banner year for Paducah.

REMARKABLE CLOTHES WORN

EVOLUTION IN DRESS WOULD PUZZLE DARWIN'S GENIUS.

Women Wore First Skirts and Old Egyptian Drawings Show Men With Nothing But Breech Clothes.

EARLY WOMEN THE SAME

The study of the evolution of dress, above all Greek dress, might paralyze the genius of a Darwin. Just when a man thinks that he is, at last, on the level of scientific opinion he finds that he has drifted leagues astray from it, or far away to the left or right. The subject is so difficult because, naturally, we have no ancient costumes before us in linen or wool, while the early artists who depicted them are not always trustworthy persons. They have a strong tendency, from the dateless period of the artists contemporary with the mammoth and the reindeer in France to the bushmen in South Africa, to draw men with wasp's waists, and to represent people as naked who were certainly clothed. Nobody was likely to go naked in a climate that suited the mammoth and reindeer, especially if he was well supplied with bone needles to sew his garments, as he certainly was. Yet palaeolithic man usually drew his species without a stitch or a clout. But yesterday were his paintings on rock walls discovered, in which his women wear skirts with a half moon cut out at the lower end to give play to the ankles.

Decorum or Decoration?
It is difficult to say whether, in warm climates, dress was invented for the sake of decorum or of decoration. If we take the case of Egypt the old Egyptian paintings show that for men the ordinary loin cloth was usually sufficient. If we pass from Egypt to Crete the art of the mysterious white men who founded and achieved (about 2500-1200 B. C.) its civilization shows in early periods men in loin cloths, perhaps first worn by them in Northern Africa. The women were originally no better clad. But on one side the ladies developed the loin cloth into a "belted pannier or poulaine," without any skirt or bodice (as also did the men), and then the women went on lengthening the pannier by overlapping additions till they had a "compound skirt," like a founced skirt in outward appearance, and finally, fashion, revealed in skirts with regular flounces and low bodices above.

Having, perhaps, 2,000 years to devote to costume and fashion, these ladies of Crete evolved almost every sort of dress known to us in western Europe, from the Elizabethan ruff and puffed sleeve to the dress of England at the end of the eighteenth century to early Victorian, to gaudily colored and trimmed "zouave jackets," with light founced skirts, and even to the Tam-o'-shanter cap, tailor made coat fitting tightly to the figure, and tweed skirt. There is a bronze statuette of a Cretan lady thus attired photographed in Dr. Masso's account of his Cretan tour.

When Men Wore Skirts.
Ladies even forsook sandals and wore bodices; in fact, some of them are known as "les Parisiennes," very gay little persons of about 1600 B. C. The men, on the other hand, clung to their loin cloths, or to baggy short skirts like loose knickerbockers, or wore tight, brief bathing drawers embroidered or embossed, and only wore long robes on Sunday, or at least, when present at religious functions. The one fashion that the ancient Cretan women never adopted was the familiar Greek peplos, so graceful in its drapery, which has no "body" or bodice, no separate skirt, but is, in fact, no more than a square woolen blanket folded (in a way which I do not understand) and taken up round the waist by a girdle. It was pinned up by safety pins or fibulae over each shoulder, and as much of it was pulled up through the girdle, to fall over it, graceful folds, as the wearer pleased. The dress depended for its effect, and indeed, for its permanence above the shoulders, on those safety pins. If one of these ceased to be "safe" down came the dress. When "The Tale of Troy" was acted many years ago by the ladies whom Sir Frederick Leighton directed, the pins caused great searching of hearts. However, they never failed to do their duty.

What Homer Describes.
his fashion, alone the Cretan ladies of 2500-1400 B. C. never evolved and no safety pins are found in the older sites of Cretan civilization. They came in at the end of that period. As they are also found far away in the north in Bosnia and Austria, and all across Eastern Central Europe, it is probable that they were brought south from these quarters by the prehistoric ancestors of the Greeks, the Achaeans, Dorians and so forth. The women would wear the peplos, the men a belted smock or chiton, with a cloak over it, also fastened with a safety pin, in cold weather. We have in Homer a full description of the smock, cloak and elaborate gold safety pin of Odysseus, and his swineherd belted his smock before he goes on a journey. This is the dress that Homer describes. In a way man put his corselet on over his chiton, of which the talks must have hung down below it. Obviously the dress is that of a climate too cold to

SUPPOSE THAT THESE WERE YOUR CHILDREN?

I sat down at the big table with the governor at my right, (writes Judge Lindsey), the mayor at my left, and the president of the board of supervisors and Police Commissioner Wilson at either end of the table. The ministers seated themselves in the chairs about the room. (We allowed no newspaper reporters in, because I knew what sort of vile and unprintable testimony was coming.) Mickey, the boy who was rounding up witnesses for me, sent in his first one.

One by one, as the boys come, I impressed upon them the necessity of telling the truth, encouraging them to talk, and tried to put them at their ease. I started each by asking him how often he had been in jail, what he had seen there, and so forth. Then I sat back and let him tell his story.

And the things they told would raise your hair. I saw the blushes rise to the foreheads of some of the ministers at the first details. As we went on, the perspiration stood on their faces. Some sat pale, staring appalled at these frocked youngsters from whose little lips, in a sort of infantile eagerness to tell all they knew, there came stories of bestiality that were the more horrible because they were so innocently, so boldly, given. It was enough to make a man weep; and indeed tears of compassionate shame came to the eyes of more than one father there as he listened. One boy broke down and cried when he told of the vile indecencies that had been committed upon him by the older criminals; and I saw the muscles working in the clenched jaws of some of our "investigating committee"—saw them swallowing the lump in the throat—saw them looking down at the floor blinking, afraid of losing their self-control. The police commissioner made the mistake of cross-examining the first boy, but the frank answer he got only exposed worse matters. The boys came and came, till at last a Catholic priest,

Father O'Ryan, cried out, "My God! I have had enough!" Gov. Peabody said hoarsely, "I never knew there was such immorality in the world!" Some one else put in, "It's awful—awful!" in a half groan.

"Gentlemen," I said, "there have been over two thousand Denver boys put through those jails and those conditions in the last five years. Do you think it should go on any longer?"

Gov. Peabody rose. "No," he said, "no. Never in my life have I heard of so much rot—corruption—vileness—as I've heard today from the mouths of these babies. I want to tell you that nothing I can do in my administration can be of more importance—nothing I can do will I do more gladly than sign those bills that Judge Lindsey is trying to get through the legislature to do away with these terrible conditions. And if," he said, turning to the police commissioner, "Judge Lindsey is 'crazy,' I want my name written under his, among the crazy people. And if anyone says these boys are 'liars,' that man is a liar himself!" —"The Beast and the Jungle," in the November Everybody's.

Foley's Kidney Pills are healing and anti-septic and will restore health and strength. Gilbert's drug store.

Cotton Underclothes Best for Winter Wear.

Should one wear wool, cotton or linen next to the skin? Wool has its fanatics, to whom discarding their flannel or merino vest or drawers would seem like risking their lives. But the opinion of physicians has changed notably in recent years, and now many, if not most of them, favor cotton or linen next to the skin.

The reason is that wool absorbs perspiration and retains it; it absorbs it with difficulty at first, but surrenders it to the surrounding air with even greater difficulty. Cotton, on the other hand, asks only an opportunity to dry, which it does as rapidly as possible.

The best plan in cold weather is to wear cotton, or linen, if you can afford it, next to the skin, with wool outer clothing. The wool excludes moisture and cold while the cotton absorbs the perspiration quickly and dries even more quickly, and this without chilling the body if the latter have an outer covering of wool.

In this climate especially, where houses and offices are generally overheated in winter, and where, consequently, the transition from indoors to outdoors is attended by a far greater change in temperature than in milder climates, where the houses are not kept so hot as in America, it is better to wear cotton or linen underclothes and to rely upon heavy outer garments to resist the cold of the wintry air.

Foley's Kidney Remedy will cure any case of kidney or bladder trouble that is not beyond the reach of medicine. It invigorates the entire system and strengthens the kidneys so they eliminate the impurities from the blood. Backache, rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles are all cured by this great medicine. ## GOOD, HONEST, SQUARE-DEAL

Medicines like those of Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, warrant their makers in printing their every ingredient, which they do, upon their outside wrappers, verifying the correctness of the same under oath. This open publicity places these medicines in a class all by themselves. Furthermore, it warrants physicians in prescribing them largely as they do in their worst cases.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

Is a most potent alternative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach and bowels, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), liver, bowels (as mucous diarrhea), or other organs.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is advised for the cure of one class of diseases only—those peculiar weaknesses, derangements and irregularities peculiar to women. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nerve.

For weak, worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulae of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glyceric extracts of the roots of native, American, medicinal, forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines of known composition, any secret nostrum. Don't do it.

CANADIAN TRADE GROWING FACTOR

NEARLY ALL EXPORTS AND IM-PORTS INCREASE.

Figures of the Bureau of Statistics,
Department of Commerce and Labor.

MANY ARTICLES OF BARTER

Washington, Jan. 27. (Special.)—
Trade between Canada and the United States made its highest record in the calendar year just ended, and has more than doubled in the last ten years. In no earlier year have either imports from, or exports to that country equaled the record of 1909. Imports from Canada have increased from $5½ million dollars
in 1899 to approximately $8 million
in 1909, and exports thereto, from $6 million to about 190 million, the estimate for 1909 being based upon
official figures of eleven months, recently presented by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor.

No other important country takes
as large a share of its imports from the United States as does Canada.
The official figures of that government show that of its total imports
in the fiscal year of 1909, 60.4 per cent were from the United States,
compared with 46.98 per cent in 1889.

The ten largest items imported from Canada in the calendar year 1909, so far as shown by the monthly statements of the bureau of statistics, are: Lumber, 18 million dollars;
copper pigs, each, 4 million dollars;
pulp, nearly 4 million, hides of cattle, 3½ million; furs and fur skins,
undressed, 1½ million; tea, 1 million; copper ore and matte, 900
thousand dollars; distilled spirits, 725 thousand; and horses, 700 thousand dollars. The ten leading articles exported to the Dominion were,
in the same year, bituminous coal,
17 million dollars; anthracite coal,
14 million; cotton, 8 million; fruits,
and nuts, 5 million; boards, etc., 4
million; books, maps, etc., 3 million;
agricultural implements, nearly 3
million, and automobiles and wheat,
each about 2½ million.

Nearly all important articles of exportation to Canada have increased when compared with 1908 or with 1899, notable exceptions with respect to a ten-year comparison being, however, locomotives, wheat, wheat
flour, leather, steel rails and cotton manufactures.

Many other articles have increased in value of exports to Canada in the decade: Agricultural implements,
from less than 2 million dollars in 1899 to nearly 3 million in 1909;
scientific instruments from less than a half million dollars in 1899 to practically 3 million in 1909; furs
and fur skins, from a half million
to over 2 million dollars; builders'
hardware, from less than 1 million to over 2 million dollars; sewing machines, from one-fifth million dollars in 1899 to about double that sum in 1909; boots and shoes, from less than a half million to over 1 million dollars; boards, deals and planks, from 1½ million dollars to nearly 4 million; timber, from less than 1½ million to nearly 1½ million dollars. It is proper to add that in the above statements of distribution of exports by articles the figures, while credited to Canada, include small amounts of merchandise
exported to Newfoundland and Labrador, though the grand totals of both imports and exports relate exclusively to Canada.

Simple Remedy for LaGrippe.
LaGrippe coughs are dangerous,
as they frequently develop into pneumonia. Foley's Honey and Tar not only stops the cough, but heals
and strengthens the lungs so that no serious results need be feared. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no harmful drugs and is in a yellow package. Gilbert's drug store.

An Observant Child.
Little Adelaide was inclined to be cowardly. Her father found that sympathy only increased this unfortunate tendency, and decided to have a serious talk with his little daughter on the subject of her foolish fears.

"Papa," she ventured, at the close of the lecture, "when you see a cow,
aren't you afraid?"

"Why, certainly not, Adelaide.
Why should I be?"

"Well, when you see a dog, aren't you afraid then?"

"No, indeed!" with marked emphasis on the "no."

"Aren't you afraid when it thunders, papa?"

"Why, no," and he laughed at the thought and asked, "Oh, you silly
child!"

"Papa," and Adelaide came closer
and looked into her parent's eye,
"aren't you afraid of nothing in the world but just mamma?"—Success Magazine.

"So you are in favor of protecting
water power?" said the forestry expert. "I am," answered Mr. Dustin Stax. "A man doesn't appreciate the power there is in water till he has had as much to do with the stock
market as I have."—Washington

EQUITABLE-STANDARD-POLICY

DO you know that THE EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES issues a policy which, at maturity,
instead of being paid to the beneficiary in one lump sum, provides a monthly income
for life? It is called a LIFE INCOME POLICY, and is well worth investigation.

Do you know that the Society has introduced a new policy of this kind, which provides a life-income not only for a man's wife or daughter, in the event of his death,
but for his own support in after life, if he lives?

It works either way. It will protect you if you live. It protects your wife if you die. And if you both live it protects you both.

Bad Results Follow the Crowding of Country People to Cities for Work.

It will some day be discovered that the real reason for the present crisis
in our affairs is caused by the desire of young men and women to get along in the world without producing anything, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. The country has been depopulated and the cities flooded with young people whose ambition it is to make a living with their brains rather than with their hands. Every city
has an army of clerks, salesgirls,
salesmen, stenographers, manicures
and what not, who produce absolutely nothing, and not a single penny to the wealth of the community in which they live, and all this vast and rapidly growing army has to be fed and clothed. Year after year the country has yielded a toll of rugged, healthful youth to the city
which has become absolutely productive. The demand for food products in the cities fixes the price for the same in the country. That demand has finally exceeded the supply
and the farmer is waxing rich.
Wealth comes from the ground.

DUMPING GROUND OF EUROPE.

Statistics Demonstrate Great Increase
of Crime From Immigration.
If we estimate the immigrants in country in 1904 to be those who had arrived since 1874 a period of 30 years only, we find that they numbered probably about twelve and one-half millions. From 1904 to and including 1908, four and a quarter millions were added. If the increase in alien criminals was in proportion to the added immigrants there should have been about one-third more
found in penal institutions in 1908
than in 1904, but the figures show the actual increase of those incarcerated

for "grave" offenses—that is, murder, robbery, burglary and the like—
was almost 99 per cent.

In other words, the four years
from 1904 to 1908 indicate an increase of practically 100 per cent of grave crimes committed by alien criminals, and this does not include
the many immigrant criminals who have suffered death either by due process of law or at the hands of others, nor the undiscovered number still free of the law against whom must be charged some at least of the horrible and mysterious crimes which have blackened the records of the years since 1904.

These are facts and figures, not

theory, and no argument can gainsay
them. Unless we guard ourselves with greater care than at present,
we shall become in truth "the dumping ground of Europe."—December Forum.

It is a dangerous thing to take a cough medicine containing opiates
that merely stifle your cough instead of curing it. Foley's Honey and Tar loosens and cures the cough
and expels the poisonous germs, thus preventing pneumonia and consumption. Refuse substitutes and take only the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package. Gilbert's
